

TrueDespair57 ▸ Public

Dec 30, 2014

Recently, I've thought about the progression of my channel and the current rate it's been going. For a Naruto-related channel, it's going well (gradually but surely). But that's just the common, everyday question I always wonder about. "Is my channel really about Naruto or whatever I think of posting". Typically, the answer would be yes since I have a Naruto profile picture or a Naruto channel banner (which isn't saying much to be honest). However, at least 15% of my videos have been off-topic as in non-naruto content. Yeah, that isn't a lot but to stay active and constant as a Naruto channel really is challenging. I mean I really, REALLY do enjoy making videos (with no ads on them also meaning no profit from these videos also meaning I'm taking time out of my great day to make videos for my subscribers!) but the real kicker here is that..... I have no capture card. "OH MY SHEIT CALL TEH COPPAHS THIS GUY DOES NOT HAVE THE RECORDING THINGMYJOBLLA". Yah that's about it. The majority of Youtube content creators that makes Naruto videos tend to have at least some gameplay of a naruto game, specifically the Naruto Shippuden: Ultimate Ninja Storm series. Trush meh I really do love me some gameplay (especially from the guy Spyno09, awesome channel) but the fact that I want to showcase my skillz and remix particularly the story element of the naruto game (which turns into an AMV) can become near impossible. Yeah I tried using a potato, it's more complicated than you think. And the idea of using the PS4's dvr capabilities can be useful. But honestly this is where I am. Initially started with the intention of a AMV-only channel and ejaculated (ohh c what I did there -__-_) into a news/gameplay/trailer channel about Naruto video games. So starting in 2015 (specifically 1/1/2015) the channel, TrueDespair57 will take a big step forward into its content. I'm starting the year 2015 long and hard (oohh) with a new intro, new content, new... naruto! It's time to make my decision on whether this will be a naruto-only channel or the naruto...and trending center channel. And my obvious decision will be a Naruto-only channel. Starting with uploads only pertaining to Naruto. Anything else, buh buh bye. The possibilities can go way, way further with this big step but then again there will be a side effect to it. Since there will be only Naruto-related content, the rate of new born videos that will come out of a video editing program's.... (sorry about that) will be twice as slow as it already is. SO that's that. Other than this announcement and the fact that I'm too poor to buy a capture card, I wish you all a happy new year!

"Ughh why is this kid making a story about his channel that hasn't even reached 50 subscribers"

- Well you see, I like making videos. I really like making them to the point that I

+1

3

Shared publicly • View activityTrueDespair57Dec 30,
2014

This will be something I will look back on 12/30/2015 and question "Did I had a life back then"?

TrueDespair57Dec 31,
2015

No man, he did not have a life back then. It's just him spouting nonsense that his channel will be Naruto-only content. I meeeaaaan, yeah, more power to you but just living off a hobby doing one specific kind of content is kinda lame. Try and diversify yourself duddddddddeeee. Just making videos of Naruto and nothing else won't give your channel dat "umph" it needed. Peace.

-Future TrueDespair57 12/31/15

TrueDespair57

11m

+TrueDespair57 Seeing that the last video posted a few months ago, I think he lost that "umph". No one knows what he will do next, but let's hope it really takes off and get us off this dumb comment chain.

TrueDespair57 12/31/16

Add a comment...